The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology of New York Hospital Queens continues to expand the clinical leadership faculty to provide greater access to the latest minimally invasive techniques and technologies for physicians who refer or treat their most complex patient cases here. Kathy Huang, M.D., is a core member of this team.

Dr. Huang's expertise in robotic surgery allows her to utilize mechanized technology to treat fibroids, endometriosis, ovarian tumors, pelvic masses and chronic pelvic pain. Dr. Huang has performed over 500 complex laparoscopic/robotic surgeries in her career.

After receiving her bachelor of arts degree from Cornell University, Dr. Huang received her medical degree from the State University of New York Downstate Medical Center in Brooklyn. She completed her obstetrics and gynecology residency training at NewYork-Presbyterian Hospital/Weill Medical College of Cornell University and went on for additional advanced training in minimally invasive surgery (robotic and advanced laparoscopic surgery) at Stanford University Medical Center in California.

Dr. Huang is a member of the American Association of Gynecologic Laparoscopists and the American Society for Reproductive Medicine. She has numerous clinical presentations and publications to her credit, including such journals as Fertility and Sterility, the official journal of the American Society for Reproductive Medicine, and The Journal of Minimally Invasive Gynecology.

Dr. Huang is fluent in Mandarin and Cantonese. If you would like to meet Dr. Huang and discuss a case, please contact her at 718-358-0361.
