The Department of Surgery of New York Hospital Queens continues to expand its clinical leadership team, providing greater access to the latest cutting edge and minimally invasive techniques to physicians who refer or treat their most complex patient cases here. Kak Rae (Kurtis) Kim, M.D., is a core member of this team.

Dr. Kim joined CRT Surgical Associates, the surgical services group at NYHQ, after completing a vascular surgery fellowship at the University of Maryland. With a strong commitment to education, prevention and timely intervention, his experience in current balloon angioplasty, stent, endograft, and open surgical solutions provide a broad spectrum of hybrid therapeutic options tailored for the patient, with best long-term outcome and least suffering in mind.

A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Kim received his medical degree from the Ross University School of Medicine, and postgraduate training in general surgery at the State University of New York at Buffalo. During that time, he received the House Staff Award for Excellence in Teaching from the School of Medicine, and was a winner of the Humanism and Excellence in Teaching Award from the Arnold P. Gold Foundation.

If you would like to meet Dr. Kim and discuss a case or the advances in vascular surgical therapies, please contact him at 718-670-1097 or krk9013@nyp.org. Dr. Kim speaks fluent Korean.
